

A black and white photograph of a dark, ornate front door. The door features a decorative arched window at the top and a brass handle. To the left of the door is a light-colored wall with a small electrical outlet. In the foreground, there is a decorative metal railing. The ground is paved with bricks, and the wall to the right of the door is made of horizontal siding.

A bright, empty room with a large sliding glass door leading to a balcony. The room has light-colored walls, a wooden floor, and a small air conditioning unit. A doorway on the right leads to another room with a tatami mat.

A photograph of a room with a large window featuring vertical bars, suggesting a secure or institutional setting. The room has white walls and a brown baseboard.
